

international meeting of emerging professionals concerning public space / life and voluntary initiatives

Following last year's "p_public" success, the Architects' Association of Chania organize this year a four-day festival, June 3-6 2011, concerning public space. We invite new architects, artists, creative and voluntary teams from all over Greece and Europe, to present projects, studies, proposals and actions on the improvement and better use of public space. The presentations and lectures will be hosted at the Center of Mediterranean Architecture in Chania, Crete.

In addition to the lectures and discussions, various events (theatre, music, games, installations) will take place in the urban area of Chania, with the ambition to re-establish the connection of public space with residents and visitors.

Within the overall reformation of life and economy in Greece, we consider significantly crucial to improve the appearance and function of our cities, so that, they will not only provide a pleasant environment for residents, but a memorable image for visitors as well.

Furthermore, we wish to establish this festival as an annual meeting and to designate the Center of Mediterranean Architecture as a platform for communication and exchange of ideas, at a national and European level.

The organization of this event, is a voluntary action by young creative people with the intention to promote the work of young professionals and artists. Participation in the event is free.
